The Frenchs Forest Market is by far the most popular and diverse markets I've ever had the pleasure of attending. Unlike other markets it has places where you are able to sit and sample food and drinks and socialise. I have never seen such an interesting variety of food and clothing stores. The fresh fruit and veg stalls are good but Syrian humus and German sausages and other ethnic foods are delightful. There are also stalls promoting good causes like Amnesty and Fair Trade Palestine, all this makes for an inspiring outing. It is terrible to think that the local community might lose the lovely spirit and. Itslity of this unique asset.
