13. Consideration of the Land and Environment Court Planning Principle

The Land and Environment Court has developed a series of “Planning Principles” that are a statement of desired outcome from a chain of reasoning or list of appropriate matters to be considered in making a planning decision. The Court has developed a Planning Principle for the use of Plans of Management in the planning process and the Planning Principle is provided in Renaldo Plus 3 Pty Limited v Hurstville City Council [2005] NSWLEC 315.

The Planning Principle indicates that Plans of Management provide further details on the operation of a particular use that may not necessarily be appropriate as conditions of consent. The content of management plans can be critical to the decision of whether a development application should be approved or refused.

The Land and Environment Court indicated that in considering whether a Management Plan is appropriate for a particular use and situation, the following questions should be considered:

1. Do the requirements in the Management Plan relate to the proposed use and complement any condition of consent?
2. Do the requirements in the Management Plan require people to act in a manner that would be unlikely or unreasonable in the circumstances of the case?
3. Can the source of any breaches of the Management Plan be readily identified to allow for any enforcement action?
4. Do the requirements of the Management Plan require absolute compliance to achieve an acceptable outcome?
5. Can the people the subject of the Management Plan be reasonably expected to achieve an acceptable outcome?
6. Is the Management Plan to be enforced as a condition of consent?
7. Does the Management Plan contain complaint management procedures?
8. Is there a procedure for updating and changing the Management Plan, including advertising of any changes?

The proposed Plan of Management Plan is consistent with the relevant part of the Planning Principle.

14. Annual Review of Plan of Management

14.1 AIM OF POLICY

14.2 IMPLEMENTATION

- a) Management of the Facility will ensure that this Plan of Management is reviewed on an annual basis in consideration of feedback from all interested parties.
