I own Pod Cuisine which sells Organic Prebiotic Beans at French's Forest market for many years. Over a 2 year period we did both the Warriewood market on Fridays and French's forest on Sundays.

Warriewood market has mothers and small children relaxing and shopping and has a lovely atmosphere.

French's Forest Sunday market is for working families and people who rely on a weekend market to get quality produce. It also has a 25 year sub culture and this strong sense of community reflects the special attributes of the Northern Beaches.

My customers are terribly concerned about the continuity of the market and access to healthy shopping in a nice outdoor setting.

I think this is an opportunity to ensure the best access to organic produce at a time when obesity and diabetes has reached epidemic levels in Australia. Lancet the International Medical journal released this major report in January 2019

Food in the Anthropocene: the EAT-Lancet Commission on healthy diets from sustainable food systems.
