RE: DA2019/0200 - 130 Old Pittwater Road BROOKVALE NSW 2100

As a former resident of 34 Corkery Crescent, I spent my childhood at this address, I am deeply disappointed to hear that this last precious piece of bushland may be bulldozed for yet another concrete construction. Surely another industrial building is not necessary in this area ? I have read a few of the other online submissions and noted that a majority of residents, who live there now, see it every day and enjoy this beautiful bushland, mention the presence of wildlife that live in this area being affected, but I also note that the "professional" environmental opinion does not mention these. Would this be because these people who conduct these reports do not actually live in the area and are only going off statistics and tests taken over a short period of time ?

Of course a lot of the habitat that should be there isn't because it is continually being destroyed. I lived there for all of my childhood and I know that there are caves down there, because we used to play in them.

Someone in power needs to take themselves for a walk through this bush and see for themselves how bulldozing it for more infrastructure is the wrong thing to do. If the old Avon Building is empty, why can't this be utilised. I strongly object to this development, and I ask that you look into the unnecessary destruction of this bushland. You have to stop and take a stand. The Northern Beaches is such a beautiful place because of our bushland. If you want it to be like the Western Suburbs, keep going !
