I have to agree with the majority of the statements made here regarding the original application made several years ago. I doubt that the sentiment of those that have commented will have changed as a result of an amended submission. The original application was refused on very sensible grounds and I can't see how the principals of that refusal should change. I live in the area and previously lived only a few streets away from the proposed site. A development of this nature would be in complete contrast to the nature, character and value of the area. I am against the application and share the views of most others here.
