Looking ahead, and at the average age of people buying and building in the valley, anyone within a kilometre of the planned development will easily be able to walk there, buy immediate necessities, or just have a coffee and walk home. There are still more than a thousand additional residents still to come into the valley. In the very least this development would reduce incidental car use and take some future pressure off Warriewood and Mona Vale shopping centres. No doubt anyone in the valley with a business at Warriewood or Mona Vale centres would oppose the development.

My wife and I support the development.
